

MEDIA RELEASE

For Immediate Release: Tuesday 23rd December 2008

Sure deal for PGA Legends

MGI/Sureshot will be an Official Sponsor of the PGA Legends Tour following the signing of a new three year agreement with the PGA of Australia. MGI will be known as the PGA Legends Tour's 'Official Motorised Golf Buggy' and Sureshot the 'Official Measuring Device.'

The new agreement coincides with the re-branding of the Australian Seniors Tour as the PGA Legends Tour as well as the recent decision by the PGA of Australia to allow the use of measuring devices in events featured on this particular tour. The PGA Legends Tour is the only professional tour world-wide that permits the use of such devices.

"The PGA of Australia are pleased to announce this new partnership with MGI/Sureshot, particularly at what is an exciting time for seniors golf and the newly named PGA Legends Tour," said Max Garske, CEO of the PGA of Australia.

Speaking about the new partnership MGI/Sureshot National Sales and Marketing Manager Miranda Edwards said the company was excited to be aligned with such an innovative project and looked forward to seeing the further growth of what is already an extremely successful seniors circuit.

"As an Australian owned and based company, we are proud to align ourselves with Australian golf and pleased to be a part of the PGA Legends Tour," said Ms. Edwards.

"The PGA Legends Tour should be commended for leading the way in Australian golf as the first professional arm to permit the use of measuring devices in competition. We believe this progression can only benefit the game and participation levels," she continued.

Through aligning themselves with the PGA Legends Tour Ms. Edwards says her company looks forward to promoting both the tour and their products to PGA members and the wider golfing public.

With the PGA Legends Tour wrapped up for 2008, the 2009 tour commences in mid-January. 2009 PGA Legends Tour Qualifying School will take place from Jan 11-14 at Camden Lakeside Country Club in NSW, followed by the Oatlands LG/Bing Lee NSW/ACT Seniors PGA Championship to be played at Oatlands Golf Club from January 15-16.

-ENDS-

For further information, comment or interview please contact:

Nicole Powell, Communications & PR Coordinator, PGA of Australia, Ph 0439 933 490

About MGI/Sureshot

As Australia's #1 motorised golf buggy company, they recently complemented their range of products through the purchase of the Sureshot gps brand. MGI proudly produce the Sureshot gps in Melbourne, and export both this product and the MGI buggies to the world. As a technical based company, MGI/Sureshot are committed to advancing the game of golf and enhancing people's enjoyment, through the increased speed of play experienced when using their products.

About the PGA Legends Tour

The PGA Legends Tour (recently been renamed from the PGA Seniors Tour) is the Australian golf circuit for professionals over the age of 50. The tour consists of approximately 30 events per year with the biggest event being the Polygiene Australian PGA Seniors Championship.

About the PGA of Australia

The PGA of Australia has a membership that comprises all Australian professional golfers and includes tournament professionals, club professionals, assistant professionals, teaching professionals, senior professionals and trainees. The PGA's core aim is to help more Australians enjoy golf more often. In doing so, the PGA aims to deliver more business opportunities to its members.